Dragnet Spread For Police Killer

FBI Joins Search For George F. Ross

CLEVELAND (AP)—With FBI agents set to join the chase, police throughout the nation were asked today to watch out for a dangerous west coast hoodlum named George F. Ross. He is charged with murdering a Cleveland policeman.

The 21-year-old burglar and ex-convict, police warned, is fully armed and "extremely dangerous." Less than a month ago, they said, he and a pal held up a Seattle policeman, robbed him of $60 and stole his revolver.

The same colt revolver was used by Ross in shooting to death Traffic Patrolman Forney L. Hass, 43, and the father of two children, police believe.

Ross is charged with first degree murder. Police say he shot Hass Saturday afternoon in a room Ross was renting and using as a central place to store loot from burglaries. The argument was over a traffic violation.

There were no witnesses to the shooting. However, Mrs. Lottie Cooper, the proprietor of the rooming house where Ross stayed under the name "B. W. Montgomery" was in another part of the house at the time and positively identified his police picture.

After a tough sleepless weekend, Deputy Inspector James E. McArthur of the detective bureau now thinks Ross got out of Cleveland. He says he may be heading east or southeast.

Ross' description: Five feet 10, 135 pounds; light brown hair, frequently dyed, brown eyes, slender build.

The regional winner will compete in the state contest. A trip to Washington will be awarded the winner of the national competition, which is comprised of state entrants. The contest is sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches.

The county speeches were memorizations of prize-winning essays on peace and war by college students.

Legislators Meet On Turnpike Law

COLUMBUS (AP)—The 99th General Assembly returned today for its first special session to speed construction of a northern Ohio turnpike. The opening gavel is scheduled to fall at 1:30 p.m.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche called the lawmakers back to change the turnpike law so bankers can market venue bonds promptly. Money from the sale of bonds to private interests will pay for the 240-mile, $300,000,000 toll super-road linked to the Pennsylvania turnpike.

Rescuers Save Man Trapped In Well Cave-In

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP)—Rescuers, some of whom worked 18 hours in sub-freezing temperatures, brought a 51-year-old man to the surface today after he had been trapped since 2:30 p.m. yesterday when a 15 foot well caved in.

Searchlights lighted the scene as Norman Vina Ford, weak but still conscious, was brought out of the gaping hole on a stretcher.

For the last hour rescuers dug with small shovels and their hands to free the trapped man's feet, one of which was caught under a plank.

Earlier bulldozers and heavy diggers gouged a hole 40 feet wide in the back yard of the Ford home where the well had been. The walls caved in yesterday when Ford and his 18-year-old son were digging the partially completed well. Ford was at the bottom when the wall collapsed.

Son Is Hero
Ford's 18-year-old son, Leon, was the hero of the rescue. He jumped into the hole to try to dig his father out when the walls collapsed. Together they dug down to the trapped man's knees. But a second cave-in buried Ford to his neck. Leon, scooping dirt with his hands into a lowered bucket, noticed that still another section was about to give way. He braced against it, and held the wall back.

Heavy equipment was moved in from nearby Hermiston where McNary dam is under construction. Rescuers forced a wide corrugated iron pipe into the hole that prevented further cave-ins.

Leon then was brought up and put to bed suffering from shock. Then the bulldozer went to work, digging a wide pit around the iron tube.

Hundreds of sightseers and volunteer workers jammed the area throughout the rescue operation.

A doctor supervised piping oxygen down into the hole. The doctor said Ford suffered no apparent injury. He said he was worried about pneumonia setting in, though.

Philippines Typhoon Kills 12 Persons
MANILA (AP)—A raging tropical typhoon ripped through the Central Philippines today. It killed 12 persons, left thousands homeless and wrecked millions of dollars worth of crops and buildings.

As the 125-mile-an-hour storm churned into the Sulu sea, AP Correspondent Frank A. White reported from Cebu City on Cebu island, that at least 12 persons were dead and hundreds homeless.

White said virtually every building made of light materials was partially wrecked and many large structures lost roofs or sustained other damage.

Truman Confers With Military, Diplomatic Aides

Korean Negotiations, Tax Scandal Topics Of Capitol Meetings

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman reviewed the world situation with particular emphasis on the Korean truce negotiations, at a White House conference today with his military and diplomatic advisers.

One of the matters presumably discussed was what course the United States should follow if the present Korean peace talks fail to produce a complete armistice by Dec. 27, the deadline set by the truce negotiators when the issue of a buffer zone across Korea was settled on Nov. 27.

Mr. Truman cut short his Florida vacation by a week to fly back yesterday for this and other conferences.

Meeting with Mr. Truman were Secretary of Defense Lovett, undersecretary of State Webb, the secretaries of the three armed services and the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

"No Emergency"
Seeking to allay tension which grew out of the sudden announcement Saturday that he was flying back to Washington, Mr. Truman told reporters Sunday:

"There is nothing wrong—don't get it into your minds that the world is coming to an end."

The Korean truce negotiations had top billing on the agenda for the White House meeting.

Mr. Truman also disclosed that he will follow up the study of the delicate international situation with a conference with Attorney General McGrath and other officials of the Justice Department which will presumably cover a congressional investigation into federal tax scandals.

To See McGrath
Asked by reporters, who interviewed him when he landed at the Washington airport yesterday, whether he would discuss the Korean situation, among other things, Mr. Truman said, "of course."

And he said this meeting will be followed by a conference with the attorney general and several other people in McGrath's office, "probably" this afternoon.

The White House has maintained resolute silence on published reports Mr. Truman is considering some "dramatic move" in the tax scandals.

These reports have speculated he might assign FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to a government-wide inquiry, that he might name a Republican and Democrat Law, yers to prosecute miscreants and that he might set up a bi-partisan commission to make an inquiry independent of current hearings by a house ways and means subcommittee.

In saying "there is no emergency," the President added, "but I have a terrific work week ahead."

Rites Held Today For James C. Bolger
Funeral service for James C. Bolger, 70, vice president, and in charge of real estate, for the A. A. Schulte Cigar Co., who died Thursday at his home in Newton, N. J., was to have been held at 2 p. m. this afternoon at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home.

Rev. Harry Barrett, rector of the Church of Our Saviour, will officiate. Burial was to have been made in Grandview cemetery.

A native of Salem, Mr. Bolger was a son of John C. and Alice Carey Bolger. His father and the late L. B. French operated the Bolger & French Drug Store here for many years. It was located at E. State St. and South Broadway now the Lease Drug store.

Mr. Bolger, a graduate of Culver Military Academy, went to New York City shortly after the turn of the century and engaged in the real estate business. Later he became affiliated with the Schulte Co. He was also vice president of the Park & Tilford Co., and was affiliated with the Oppenheim Collins Co., which operates department stores.

The soldiers monument in Grandview cemetery was a gift from Mr. Bolger to Charles E. Carey Post, American Legion.

Mr. Bolger is survived by the wife, a son, William, of Cleveland, and a daughter, Mrs. Adella House, of New York City.

Weather Returns To Normal Pace
Winter weather crept back into Salem over the weekend to shunt the unusually warm temperatures of last week back into memory lane.

Ohio Forecaster Andrew Kiemann pointed out that the current weather throughout the state is merely a return to normal temperatures for this time of year and that the entire country except Southern Florida is experiencing the cold.

The mercury in Ohio is expected to drop to the seasonal range of 22 to 27 degrees tonight and rise into the 40s tomorrow. Cloudy skies are expected to clear tonight but considerable cloudiness is predicted again for Tuesday.

UN Demands Reds Reply On Prisoners

55 Americans Reported Arrested By China Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department has reported that 55 Americans are believed to be under some form of arrest in Communist China, 32 of them in prison.

The department issued its statement last Saturday after Senator Knowland (R) of California had released the list of 32 persons reported to be in prison. The other 23 are reportedly under house arrest.

Knowland said in Los Angeles he had obtained the list from the Department on a confidential basis but had decided to make it public "on my own responsibility as a United States Senator."

"It is high time the public knew about it," he declared.

Most of the 32 are missionaries. Five are women.

Youth 17, Hurt In Car Collision

Edward Hart Injured In N. Lincoln Mishap

A 17-year-old Salem youth was injured in one of three traffic mishaps which occurred in the city over the weekend.

Roger L. Buehler of 361 N. Lincoln Ave. reported to police that as he was driving north on N. Lincoln Ave. at 2:25 a.m. Sunday his car crashed into an auto ahead of him operated by Dale F. Panzott of 987 E. Fifth St., who attempted to make a left turn onto Sugar Tree Alley as he was passing.

Buehler's car then struck and knocked down a city light pole on the northwest corner of Sugar Tree Alley.

Edward Hart, 17, of 1872 Painter Rd., a passenger in the Buehler car, sustained lacerations of the face and shock and was taken to the Salem City Hospital where his condition is reported fair to day. Both cars were considerably damaged.

Glenn Broomall of 968 S. Lincoln Ave. told police that 5-year-old Don Whaley, son of Clinton W. Whaley of 563 W. Pershing St., ran into the side of his car at 12:30 p.m. Saturday on W. Pershing St.

The boy apparently was not hurt and his mother did not request that he be taken to a doctor.

Donald V. Shannon of 977 W. State St. reported to police that as he was driving on W. State St. at 11:58 p.m. Saturday he attempted to wipe the inside of his windshield, causing him momentarily to lose control of his car which struck a parked auto bearing license number W-989-B.

The cars were only slightly damaged.

2 Teen-Agers Slightly Hurt In Car Accident
Two teen-agers were slightly injured in one of the two highway traffic mishaps investigated by State Highway Patrolmen over the weekend.

James McNeely Jr., 16, of RD 4, Salem, lost control of his car on the Duck Creek Rd. at 4:05 p.m. Sunday, causing it to leave the highway and crash into a tree.

The youth sustained lacerations of the forehead and face, and a passenger in the auto, Phyllis Ann Maurer, 16, of RD 4, Salem, received a laceration of the nose. The two were treated at the Central Clinic.

Cars driven by Charles F. Buehler, 25, of RD 1, Canfield, and Marshall F. Finlen, 19, of RD 4, Warren, collided at 4 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Lockwood Blvd. and the Tippecanoe Rd. between Canfield and Boardman. No one was injured but the cars were considerably damaged.

Disarmament Commission Formation Agreed Upon

PARIS (AP)—A high diplomatic source said today the western powers and Soviet Russia have agreed on formation of a disarmament commission which could consider rival East and West plans for arms reduction and atomic controls.

This diplomat, who would not permit use of his name said that agreement was the only important concrete result of the long secret talks of the Big Four powers on disarmament.

He said it appeared that the Western plan for arms limitation and reduction plus the Soviet version of disarmament plans would be put before a disarmament commission next spring with instructions to start work on drawing up arms limitation proposals.

Far From Solution
Informed sources insisted that the delegates of the four big powers, U. S. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup, British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky and French Delegate Jules Moch, had not agreed on any plan for immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb.

It was reported also that there had been no agreement on any of the major points separating the East and West except on the disarmament commission, which may not even be called by that name, but which actually will deal with that topic.

The Big Four ended their secret talks in a session which ran through the lunch hour and caused the hungry delegates to order sandwiches and coffee taken into the smoke-filled room.

The four will report tomorrow to the U. N. Political Committee, which is expected in some circles to conclude the armaments debate before the Christmas holidays begin Dec. 21.

Communists Charged With Ransom Tactics

Answer Sought By Tomorrow; Conferees Have 17 Days Left

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—The United Nations command today demanded an answer tomorrow from the communists on the Allied proposal to start immediate negotiations for exchange of prisoners of war in Korea. There was no indication what the Red reply will be.

The Reds have stood pat on their demand that the U. N. answer their proposal for behind-the-lines inspection by representatives of neutral nations before discussing prisoners.

U. N. negotiators said the matter still is under study.

Stalling, Is Charge
From Tokyo, the United Nations radio last night lambasted the Communists in one of the bitterest attacks from an Allied source. It accused the Reds of holding U. N. prisoners for blackmail and ransom to win their point on the question of policing an armistice.

The Allies in effect told the Communists at Panmunjom Monday to quit stalling on the prisoner issue.

They told the Reds that an Allied liaison officer will be in Panmunjom at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday (8:30 p. m. Salem time) for their answer.

And a one-man U. N. sub-committee will be ready to start negotiations for the exchange of prisoners 2 1/2 hours later.

Excerpts from the U. N. radio broadcast were distributed to correspondents in Tokyo by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in a bulletin labeled "not an official release."

The broadcast declared that the Communists "have made hostages of all U. N. prisoners still alive in Red camps" by their apparent refusal to talk about exchanging prisoners unless the U. N. gives in to their demands for policing the truce.

"This Communist blackmail, which is a thousand times more repulsive than the ordinary act of kidnapping by the lowest form of gangster, should not come as a complete surprise to the free world," the broadcast continued.

"The Communists have long held hostages for ransom of one type or another in Europe."

Only 17 days remain for Allied and Communist negotiators to agree on an armistice in the 30-day time limit they set—and the outlook is gloomy.

United Nations forces threw back nine minor Red probing attacks along the frozen Korean war front yesterday and today.

He is a midwest leader of the Harold E. Stassen For President forces and has served two terms as a state senator in the Nebraska one-house legislature.

Before coming to Nebraska as publisher of the Hastings Tribune, Seaton was active in his home state of Kansas in the Alf Landon presidential campaign.

Vets Administration Reports Drop In G. I. Home Buying

MORE THAN 80 per cent of the nation's 12 million World War II veterans are still eligible to buy homes under the G. I. Bill of Rights more than seven years after the start of the program.

The Veterans Administration reports 2,450,000 G. I. homes have been purchased since June, 1944. Only 800,000 of these were new houses although almost six million new dwellings have been turned out since the war.

Many ex-servicemen are in the market to buy but the VA says applications for home loans have been dropping sharply since November, 1950, as a result of the general shortage of mortgage money.

For more than a year, G. I. loans have been treated as the least attractive mortgages a lender can hold mainly because of the very low four per cent interest rate. Investment funds for home building, therefore, have been channeled into private mortgages and Federal Housing Administration loans which yield a higher money return. Credit controls on housing also have hampered purchases.

VA points out, however, that the G. I. home program has another five-and-a-half years of life and predicts that "many more" vets will take the opportunity to buy a house on the government's easy terms in the future.

AT LEAST two factors are working for an increase in G. I. home buying. They are:

1. The supply of money for mortgages is improving and by the middle of next year is expected to meet the needs of most builders.

2. Younger veterans are moving closer to the time when they will enter the home buying stage and they are expected to take advantage of VA loan benefits before seeking other types of mortgages.

The VA also notes that more veterans are buying homes. For example, in 1946 83 per cent of the loans went for houses built before Pearl Harbor. Now the figure is down to 30 per cent and probably will go lower.

A total of 14 billion dollars worth of loans have been approved by the VA with the agency guaranteeing six billions of this amount. The agency says:

"OF THESE loans, less than two per cent were in default or behind in payment and claims paid by the Veterans Administration on home loans amounted to less than one-half of one per cent of the total."

Government officials have launched a study to find out what steps they will take next spring if home building shows signs of rising above the 800,000 unit goal set for the year.

"Should housing output 'boom' under present regulations, production officials warn they are prepared to clamp tighter controls on the use of materials and may crack down on the size of a house a builder may construct."

GENERALLY, the National Production Authority plans to allow present building regulations to remain intact for the next four years without major change.

But, officials are worried that some builders may wind up next summer unable to finish a house started in the spring. To offset this threat, plans are now being made for equitable distribution of an inadequate supply of housing products.

The U. S. Office of Education is hoping the Defense Production Administration will allow construction of 80,000 classrooms next year despite the controls program.

Education officials contemplate the construction of 62,000 new classrooms and 18,000 others as replacements for obsolete and damaged buildings for use by elementary and high school students.

DPA HAS given no assurance it will support the proposed program but has hinted it will try to alleviate partially the problems of many school officials.

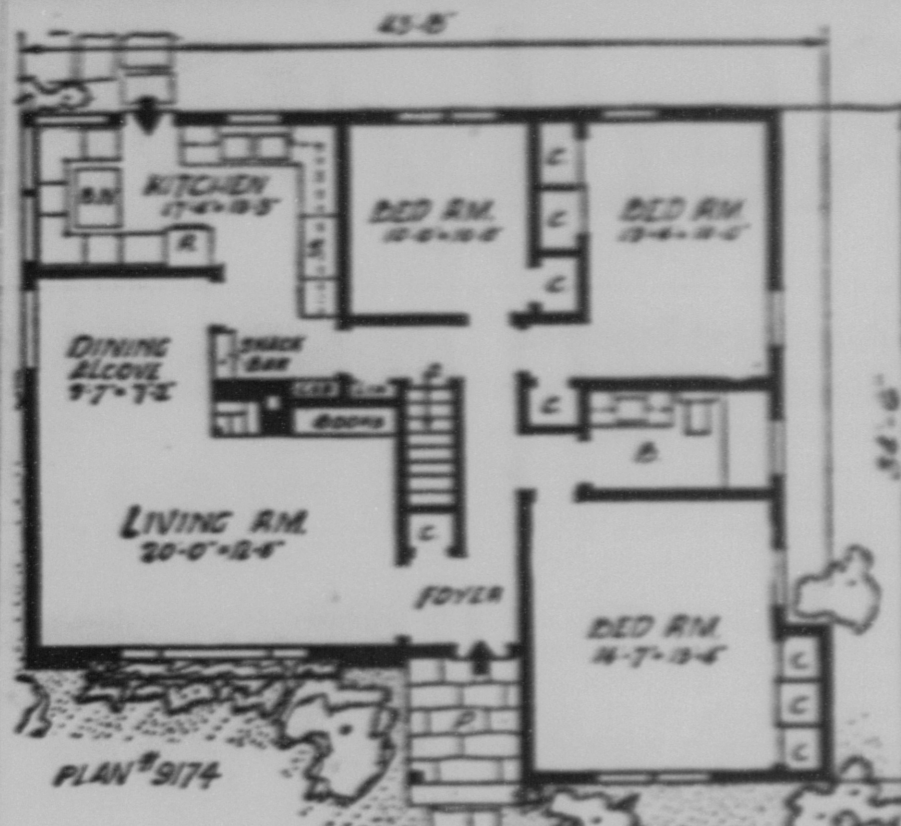

Builders are frequently requested to submit an application to the government if they plan to use more than two tons of steel in a school project. DPA may revise the figure to 25 tons to eliminate a lot of paper work and speed up construction of urgently needed schools.

Meanwhile, construction of college libraries, dormitories and other similar buildings is being held up indefinitely to provide the greatest amount of material for secondary schools.

Three Building Permits Issued During Week

Only three building permits were issued during the past week, Mayor Harry M. Vincent reported today.

Matt Klein of 1000 Newgarden Ave. obtained a permit for the construction of a four-room and bath frame dwelling at 980 Newgarden Ave.

Quizzing The Gardener

Q—A large branch on an old apple tree of ours extends a few feet over on the neighboring property. Can the neighbor cut off the offending branch without permission?—W.M.

A—Your neighbor, according to the law in many states, may remove those portions of the branch over his side of the boundary line. While he need not notify you that he is going to cut off the branch the wood belongs to you. Any cutting must be done according to good arboreal practices.

Q—Are orchids parasitic plants?—T.C.

A—Definitely no. A parasite is a living plant that lives on another organism from which it derives its food. Orchids use a tree as a rooting place to obtain sufficient air and sunshine. From it they also get an appreciable amount of organic nutrients from the sedentary accumulations. Leaves are green which means they contain chlorophyll and manufacture their own food. Consequently orchids are not parasites.

How To Fix It

Q—What is the best way to dry wet books?
A—Do not place the book near heat. Place a clean blotter on each side of a page and go over with a hot iron.

Faulty Stairs Cause Many Home Mishaps

ONE OF THE greatest causes of accidents in the home is a faulty stair. Loose treads or sagging carriages may trip the unwary or he may slip because the stair has worn a dangerous angle.

Often a regular check of the stair is sufficient to keep it in good condition but if it has been neglected too long, it is better to replace the entire unit completely.

There are two types of construction. In one the carriage, long diagonal timbers that support the treads and risers. The other type calls for slots cut out of the carriage into which the treads are secured with nails. The latter is the stronger construction but is usually more difficult to construct.

In laying out the new stair there are a few standard rules which you should follow. The head clearance above each tread should be at least seven feet. The rise between steps should be seven inches and the treads generally about ten inches wide. To get the number of treads needed, divide the distance, along the floor from the lower end of the stair to the other end into equal spaces of around ten inches each.

After the carriages have been firmly anchored in their permanent position, start at the bottom and fasten in the first tread with finishing nails. Countersink and fill the holes with wood putty. Then fasten the riser on top of the tread and to the height of the notch in the carriage so that the next tread will rest on top of it. The procedure is roughly the same if you are using the grooved type of carriage. The tread is slid into the groove and secured from the sides with spikes and in this case the riser may be installed on top of the tread or fastened against the back edge of the tread.

State Patrol Enforcing Christmas Tree Law

The State Highway Patrol has announced that it is enforcing the Christmas tree law which calls for inspection of trucks and cars carrying Christmas trees.

The Patrol stated that the driver must carry statements that he is either the legal carrier or legal owner of the trees. Owners of trees transporting them must have the statement of their ownership notarized.

Drivers not having such statements will be arrested, the patrol said, and if they are unable to produce evidence proving themselves legal owner or carrier within three days, the trees will be confiscated and sold by the state.

Mail Gifts Before Dec. 11

L. D. Beardmore, acting postmaster, today warned Salem residents that Santa Claus may come and go before their Christmas cards and gift boxes arrive.

"To assure delivery before Christmas Day, all parcel post should be in the mail by Tuesday, Dec. 11. If the packages are not ready by then, you should send them by Air Parcel Post. Christmas cards for distant states should be mailed at least a week before Dec. 25."

The next few days are especially critical, the postmaster points out. Reports indicate that post office facilities are overtaxed all over the country—with many thousands of packages due to arrive here the week before Christmas.

Kiwanis Chest On The Move

'Treasure' To Aid Children's Work

COLUMBIANA—East Palestine Kiwanians will bring to the Columbiana club this evening the 15th division treasure chest and present the program for the inter-club meeting of the two clubs.

Columbiana Kiwanians will take the chest to the Salem club Thursday noon and provide the entertainment.

Every club member deposits a coin in the chest both at its receipt and its departure, and the winning club in the district gets the contents of the chest for its underprivileged children's work. Two factors figure in deciding the winner, distance travelled and number of members making the trip.

RIGBY MAST of East Liverpool, new Columbiana county welfare director, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Rotary Club this evening.

OFFICERS for 1952 will be elected by the Booster Club at its meeting in the High School building at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Two nominations have been made for each office to fill, the slate being:

Charles Douglas, William Longshore, president; John Kampfer, John Cox, vice president; Wilder Foertch, Clarence Wining, secretary; Rev. W. S. Longworth, Clayton Sittler, treasurer; Lee Harold, Allan White, Tom Sayres, Waldo Ward, Gay Zellers, George Greiner, trustees, three to elect.

Final reports on membership tickets are to be made at this meeting.

GLEN MAY'S Cities Service basketball team will open the season in Columbiana High School gym with Park Hotel Barbers of Warren as its opponent at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday. Columbiana and Canfield H.Y.'s will play a preliminary at 7:30.

PARENTS are urged to take their children to the "open house" meeting of the Grade School Mothers' Club in the High School building at 7 p. m. Wednesday instead of 8, the usual hour, and visit the children's home rooms. Mothers of all grades and the kindergarten department are invited. There will be a program of carol singing and musical selections.

Each mother is to take a dozen cookies, which will be served with a soft drink in the cafeteria after the program.

SALES of Christmas seals for Columbiana village and Fairfield township at the weekend were $1,123.50, a little less than half the $2,300 quota. Total sales last year were $2,277. The money goes to help finance the free chest X-ray service of the Columbiana County Public Health League. Mark Klingensmith of the Union Bank is the local chairman.

Columbiana Social Notes:

Past matrons of the 18th Ohio district, O. E. S., will have a Christmas party next Saturday in the lodge quarters of Pleasant Valley chapter at Elmwood, with covered dinner at noon and gift exchange. Members of Columbiana Chapter desiring transportation are asked to call Mrs. Elsie Crosby, phone 2331. Columbiana Chapter will install officers tomorrow evening.

Members of Panora Lodge of Odd Fellows will attend a meeting of the 27th district of Ohio Odd Fellows in Damascus tomorrow evening. Salem, East Palestine and Lisbon are the remaining three lodges of the district. The initiatory degree will be conferred. Panora Lodge will have candidates.

Columbiana Churches:

The Friendly Folks of Jerusalem Lutheran Church will hold their Christmas party in Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church Wednesday evening, instead of Tuesday evening, the usual time for meeting, with covered supper at 6:30.

Election of officers and a gift exchange are scheduled for the meeting of the 100 Per Cent class of the Presbyterian Church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ram-

1 Dead, 7 Hurt In Lima Air Raid Drill

LIMA, O. (AP)—A mock air raid drill yesterday cost the life of a Lima policeman and injuries to seven other persons as a series of mishaps marred the second test of Lima's civil defense organization.

Patrolman Charles F. Bozeman, 43, died at 2:45 a. m., today in a Lima hospital of injuries received when a smoke bomb exploded prematurely and blew away part of his skull.

Another policeman, George Wilson, 35, was treated for powder burns as a result of a second premature bomb explosion.

An ambulance, headed by a simulated emergency run to pick up "casualties," collided with two other autos, sending another six persons to a hospital. Two of them were injured seriously.

Mayor Stanley Welker appointed a committee to investigate the accidents which marred the test. About 25 police officers had been assigned to set off the black powder bombs in various parts of the city. They were to signal the start of the alert.

Police Chief Kermit Westbay said the bombs were the type usually used in Fourth of July celebrations. The fuses were supposed to burn eight seconds before the bomb exploded, giving the officers time to get out of range.

Westbay told newsmen at least five police officers reported their bombs exploded long before the eight seconds lapsed.

Guy Lombardo's Car Kills Man In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—An automobile driven by orchestra leader Guy Lombardo, struck and killed a man and seriously injured a woman early yesterday.

The band leader was returning to his Freeport, Long Island, home from an engagement at the Roosevelt Hotel in Manhattan.

A hearing has been set in vehicular accident court for Jan. 9 to determine whether there is evidence to warrant a charge against Lombardo.

Lombardo told police the traffic light was in his favor and he was driving only 25 to 30 miles an hour when the two figures suddenly loomed before him.

Police said one witness reported the traffic light showed Lombardo, another asserted the light was against the musician, and a third said the light was changing at the time.

Five Zanesville Men Arrested For Gambling

ZANESVILLE (AP)—Police last night arrested five persons playing poker in a room on Main Street, three blocks from the police station.

Richard L. Bruney, 68, who, police said, holds a federal "occupational" gambling stamp, was charged with operating a gambling house. Merle Steinbrook, 56, was charged with permitting a room to be used for gambling.

Henry Franning, 43, Heywood Martin, 40, and Russell Young, 33, all were charged with gambling. The five posted a total of $215 in bond and were released.

FARM YOUTHS MEET

CLEVELAND (AP)—Young farm people, 12 to 20, gathered in Cleveland today for the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association convention to demonstrate their produce and compete for prizes.

There are more than 20,000 members in the organization, and the 400 boys and girls here are strate their produce and compete in packaging, preserving or marketing vegetables.

About 25 common fire hazards are responsible for most home fires, with cigarettes and matches starting more blazes than any other hazard.

Point of Neglect

THE LONGER the war goes on in Korea, the more certain it is that the loneliness of American men away from home will be a major problem in planning global security.

With the exception of the garrisons set up on remote islands and in places like Alaska, this is the first time in modern history that large numbers of young Americans have been forced to bear loneliness in surroundings which add acute physical discomfort. It is surely no secret to Koreans by this time that Americans have not fallen in love with the Korean peninsula.

One remedy for loneliness is potentially available, but it is not always easy to arrange. The remedy is letter-writing. Mail call never was more important than it is to Americans in Korea. Newspapers are being asked repeatedly by soldiers who try to arrange for someone to write to them. It almost suggests a point of neglect in military preparation.

Perhaps no soldier should be sent overseas without arrangements in advance for his receipt of letters on a schedule. They appear to be necessary to morale in any of the other things done in his behalf—more so than some of the things.

A Citizen's Good Name

THE AMERICAN sense of justice is summed up in the adage that it is better to let two guilty persons go free than to convict one innocent citizen.

The ideal of fair play behind the adage is bothering many Washington reporters assigned to congressional investigations. It has been bothering them for a long time. They have watched the mishandling of witnesses in numerous and labor investigations. They remember what happened to some of the citizens who were summoned to hear before the subcommittee on Un-American Activities Committee. And now they are beginning to wonder at the possibilities of injustice in the investigation of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

It is to be no means a matter of being over-cautious. A concurrent resolution offered by Senator Kefauver and 15 other U.S. senators last August would set up new rules of procedure for investigations. Witnesses would be notified in advance of the kind of material to be presented and given a chance to defend themselves. They would be allowed to have counsel to help them present their side of the story, and they would be allowed to ask questions of witnesses who had testified against them.

The consensus in Washington among congressmen and news reporters is that something needs to be done to protect a citizen's good name against the disruptive which can come to it in a legislative investigation. The congressman cannot seek information without bringing in names of persons who may be innocent. Newsmen cannot report congressional hearings without mentioning the names of persons who may be damaged by apparent association with unscrupulous characters.

Defense Log Might Save U.S.

WHETHER OR NOT to be deeply concerned about industry's inability to meet military production schedules is going to be a public issue early in 1952.

One way to settle it constructively might be to remember that if the United States still used conscription it could produce them in unlimited quantities. But the United States now is talking about atomic artillery—a new military concept.

Whenever a nation is building up its armaments, it must make difficult choices between producing weapons already familiar and producing new weapons in the hope of gaining an advantage over the potential enemy. To whatever extent there has been a defense lag in the United States, the cause must be ascribed to the time required to design and manufacture new weapons.

The jet planes being built when the Communist conspiracy launched aggression in Korea have not their match. The piston-engine planes in general use at that time now are obsolete. The United States has learned it cannot rely on World War II weapons for defense if the Communist conspiracy decides to start World War III.

The defense lag, so-called, might save the United States in the sense that it might keep this country from committing itself in advance to fight for its survival with weapons which already had gone out of style when World War II ended in 1945.

Because head-downs come to people who carry too much about not knowing how not to carry.

A man and his wife are one, according to marriage vows. We're hard on when they married like a donee.

Many people who know how to get at least know enough to make the most of it.

Airplane Industry

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

Hopes U. S. Will Put 'Guns' Before 'Butter'

WASHINGTON—The aircraft industry was the most jubilant over the Sen. Lyndon Johnson preparedness report which blasted the government's guns and butter mobilization policy and for the lag in defense production.

Plane makers have borne the brunt of the criticism of lagging munitions output. And the aerial war over Korea, with a shortage of our newest jets being a factor, has dramatized that aspect of the problem.

The great bulk of the aircraft industry depends mostly on government orders and has not much motive to be in sympathy with the guns and butter plan. Plane makers make very little butter.

Thus, from the start, the aircraft industry has quarreled with the basic approach to the Korean mobilization, which has been to try to divide the available materials and machine tools among the various civilian users and military users according to a pre-set formula. What the industry wanted was first crack at all the materials and machine tools, and then what was left could be divided among civilian users.

It is this idea, in effect, which Senator Johnson's subcommittee on preparedness apparently is demanding. Instead of guns and butter at the same time, it should be guns first, and butter later—if possible.

The Johnson report suggests getting a procurement czar in the Pentagon, with complete control to coordinate all military buying, who will be a louder voice at the conference table where the big decisions are made.

AIRCRAFT INDUSTRY leaders are especially pleased over that prospect of this happening. A good share of their present woes are the result of fumbling and indecision in the Pentagon.

First, the plane manufacturers feel that the Joint Chiefs of Staff failed to make a strong enough case to the President on the needs of the industry. They say the Pentagon was afraid to speak out against butter with the guns and as a result they are suffering their present woes.

Another big gripe against the Pentagon was the failure to set up any kind of a priority system within the services on materials. All anyone gets who does business with the services is a defense order certificate.

In a Brown Study

By TRUMAN TWILL

THE topic for discussion was study. Inability to study, it was agreed, had caused far more disappointment than stupidity had caused. And it also was agreed that it was a rare person who could master the trick.

The same boys able to shut out the world if they were doing something that interested them could not shut out the ticking of a clock when it was time to study. The same girls who couldn't wait to hear the latest recording could think of a dozen things they had to do before they could study.

So the first part of the trick was to learn to study by habit, like brushing the teeth. No more hit-and-miss studying, waiting for inspiration to crack a book and grapple with its contents. But routine studying—the same time and the same circumstances every night—that was the way to do it.

The trick of concentration was not easy to carry out because it tends to become personal. There is no pat formula for concentration. Each person must figure it out according to his own needs. Some people are distracted by noises, some by sights, some by the mere presence of others. Others are not distracted by anything. They can close their minds to everything but the subject at hand.

In any event, no student unable to concentrate to his own satisfaction could be called a real student. He was only a fraction of a student, which led to estimates about the size of the fraction: in the cases of the adults present. They averaged out at 50 per cent.

That did not mean there could have been another 50 per cent added in credits if the persons present had done it right. It only meant they got out of what they were supposed to be studying only half of what they could have got out of it if they had been able to study. And why couldn't they study?

They were not interested. And the things which interested them were only half productive because their all-around inability to study hampered them seriously in learning what they really wanted to learn. Their minds wandered. They fell asleep. They let themselves be imposed on by time-wasters. They got off and flunked out.

They were sure, now that it was too late, that the habit of good study was the most important thing to be learned in school—more important than any of the

That means that a plane-maker trying to get stainless steel for a firewall in a jet—the partition between the engine and frame—doesn't have any more rights to it than the manufacturer of plumbing supplies who might need stainless steel for bathroom fixtures in some barracks. As one aircraft company executive puts it:

"Just about all the defense order certificate gives us is a hunting license to go out on the reservation and look for materials."

Biggest gripe of the air aircraft industry leaders is the trouble they have had with machine tools. On this they blame both the Pentagon and Mike DiSalle, the price boss.

IT WASN'T UNTIL very recently that the three services would consent to any kind of a pooling arrangement of the huge stock of machine tools which each had in storage. The Navy was most reluctant to turn over any of its huge stockpile to makers of planes for the Air Force. The Air Force was first to go along with something like a pool deal but not until very late in the game. Theoretically the feeble Munitions Board should have broken up this hoarding play as soon as it was discovered.

Their case against DiSalle is based on his unwillingness to let machine tool makers raise prices. Attitude of the tool industry was, "Why should we take a chance on making brand new machine tools on which we are sure to lose money?" Price increases have since been granted, but according to a plane manufacturer, the delay held up production on the new jet models exactly 12 months.

The industry does not have a major complaint against the services for setting unrealistic schedules of delivery. Their irritation on this score is against President Truman. In December of 1950 he said in a speech that aircraft production could be quickly increased five times. When he made that claim, total military plane production was from 225 to 250 per month.

Exactly 15 months later, production had barely doubled to from 450 to 500. The manufacturers claim that even if conditions had been perfect and they could have gotten all the materials and machine tools they needed, the best they could have done in a year was to triple production.

things studies. Most of these could be forgotten. The old pros who learned how to bear down on students would bear down all their lives; they always would have an edge on the competition. And the ones who never learned how to bear down never would learn.

It was as simple as that. The secret of making the most of the brain was being able to bring its power to a focus. Maybe one person in a hundred thousand ever learns to do that well enough to be a student. The fact that many students had only nominal educations is insignificant. They learned the big trick, which is how to use their brains for some higher purpose than to befuddle themselves with its remarkable ability to think of everything it is not supposed to think of at the wrong time.

The Chinese use the remora, or sucking fish, for catching turtles. A string is attached to the tail of the fish and it is released in the water. When it attaches itself to a turtle by means of the suction cup on top of its head, the fisherman pulls both up.

It Just Doesn't Make Sense, Does It?

Return Of Progressive Education

By GEORGE S. BENSON

A GROUP of university professors conducted a radio panel discussion on a New Orleans station a few nights ago. When teachers get together in such manner, and discuss frankly and publicly some of the faults of their own profession, the results can be of value not only to the school people but to the parents and the general public. The question discussed was: Are our schools turning out young men and women unable to work the simple arithmetic problems they meet in everyday life?

The agreed opinion on the question was, "Yes—they are." The professors were from Loyola and Tulane Universities. Also on the panel was a Loyola student representing students of today. He too felt that "we are growing up a generation who can't work simple arithmetic." He based his opinion on his own experience with students in his own college.

ONE OF THE important facts brought out came from a test given this year to 400 high school graduates who entered the freshman class of one of the New Orleans colleges. The test was in simple arithmetic. Yet, of the 400 freshmen taking it, 180 failed!

The professors were of the opinion that similar weaknesses were to be found among students throughout the country. Therefore, the major part of the discussion was given over to the question of "Where is education failing?" There seemed to be general agreement that teachers nowadays are themselves being taught "too much about new methods of teaching and not enough about the basic subjects themselves." The professors were also of the opinion that "so many new things are being brought into the grade school and high school curriculums that basic 'tool' subjects are neglected."

Panel members were of the opinion that this neglect of basic subjects was due, at the grade school and high school level, to the return of "progressive education," which had a short-lived popularity early in the century, was fathered by William H. Kilpatrick and John Dewey at Teachers College, Columbia University. These educational "moderns" placed greatest importance on new methods of teaching, almost discarded the basic orthodox studies of reading, writing and arithmetic, and declared there were no fundamental truths.

AT VARIOUS POINTS around the country controversy has been stirred up in recent years over claims of parents that certain teaching practices and even some of the basic philosophy of "progressive education" had been quietly worked into school courses of study without the knowledge or consent of school patrons generally. Whatever the outcome of such controversies there are examples, besides the ones cited by the New Orleans professors, of a serious failing somewhere along the line in many schools.

The Babson Institute in Massachusetts made a study of the level of knowledge of 30,000 students in 100 New England schools and reported the average school-boy could not read well and that "many high school graduates cannot solve a simple arithmetic problem." In Los Angeles, to silence parental objections to some "progressive" methods used in the school system, the school authorities themselves have just conducted an examination of 11,000 high school juniors.

To their surprise and embarrassment, they found that 18 per cent of the juniors did not know how many months there are in a year, 600 couldn't work a simple arithmetic problem such as dividing 70 by two, and about 400 couldn't tell the time of day on a clock.

It would seem therefore that we need more self-critical radio panels such as the one in New Orleans. And above all we need somehow to encourage the intelligent, active interest of all school patrons—at the primary, the high school and college levels. The principles of human freedom rest on the structure of American education.

But only through sound, common-sense teachings based on the fundamental truths of life can the American heritage of freedom and individual opportunity be passed up from generation to generation.

Treat Birthmarks According To Type

A MOTHER writes that her little four-year-old girl has a light-colored birthmark on her cheek and wants to know whether she should consider a skin graft or whether there is some kind of paint which can be put on the mark.

This question and many others like it are often asked by parents, but such inquiries are not easy to answer because there are several kinds of birthmarks, and they should not all be treated in the same way.

Fortunately, many birthmarks are so small, covered with hair, or placed in such an inconspicuous part of the body that they need not cause any concern. Some birthmarks are made up of numerous tiny blood vessels in the skin. Such a "mark" is called a hemangioma.

Some are level with the surface of the skin but have a dark, purplish color which gives them the common name of port wine mark.

Others made up of blood vessels are raised above the skin level and are soft and spongy. These are called strawberry marks. This type may occur anywhere, but it particularly is common around the lips or tongue.

Another common variety of birthmark made up of blood vessels is irregularly shaped and slightly raised. It is called a spider nevus because the blood vessels at the center look like the body while the smaller ones passing outward resemble the legs of a spider.

There are various ways of treating port wine nevus or birthmarks, all aimed at closing off the blood vessels, so that blood ceases to flow through. Carbon dioxide snow may be used for the small ones.

These birthmarks require delicate handling, however, as there is some danger of leaving an abnormal skin after the port wine birthmark has been destroyed. Radium treatment is effective, also, in some cases.

There is also a fairly new type of treatment with what is called the Grenz ray. The same kinds of treatment can be considered for the strawberry mark or the spider nevus.

In addition to treatments mentioned, there is at least one good commercial preparation which can be used to cover some kinds of birthmarks. This comes in different colors and can be matched to the skin of the individual and applied once a day or so. It has saved a lot of self-consciousness and distress but it is in no sense a cure.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

MY DEAR OLD grandmother used to say "Trust in God, count your change and don't believe all you hear" and it's still good advice.

A fellow who believed all he heard today would end up fruitily in the head . . . shucks you can't even believe all you see with your own eyes.

Like that situation in Korea where a 14-month war and a six-month peace conference stumble along side by side.

This is a situation which has so many persons asking "which one has the looney?"

And if they ever give it a name I would suggest "the war that wasted all our resources but it couldn't be carried to victory because somebody might not like it."

Or you see that the party of the forgotten man has cost us $442,000,000,000 in taxes at the national level without forgetting a man.

And is willing to make it a trillion if given half a chance.

Fish Tales

By SAUL PEY

(For Hal Boyle)

They Flirt, Connive And Fight

FISH LOOK DUMB only in aquariums. In their own neighborhood, they look pretty smart. Well, as smart as people, anyway. Even smarter. Nobody ever found a fish trying to write under water.

There are fish who behave like ascetic philosophers and others who act like Errol Flynn. There are fish always looking for a fight and fish always looking to flirt. There are fish who take their marriage vows seriously and only death can part them. And there are shrewd, conniving, five-percenter type of fish who trade on other people's connections.

THESE ARE SPECIES with which Hans Haas had had a nodding acquaintance in the Red Sea, the Mediterranean, Caribbean and Pacific. He is 32, handsome, husky and a native of Vienna. By trade, he is a diver, aquatic explorer, hunter, writer, zoologist, a submarine Sam Goldwyn and underwater disc jockey.

Haas made a full-length movie under the Red Sea which won a prize at the Vienna Film Festival. Doubleday has brought out his book, "Diving to Adventure."

Haas has been bitten by a shark (over), has fought with a six-foot, eel-like Moray (which he considers the most dangerous fish) and he has ridden, he says, on the back of 40-foot whale sharks ("which are friendly when you get to know them").

HE HAS ALSO studied the reaction of fish to music. He had men in a small boat play Viennese waltzes, American jazz and Italian opera while he relayed the sound 100 feet below with a loudspeaker.

"The music came out very clear down there," Haas says. "The fish became very curious. Especially the Jacks—they're 20-pounders. More than 100 of them formed a big circle around the loudspeaker, looking like a ballet. Caruso seemed to be the favorite."

When he's down below studying fish faces and personalities, Haas wears swim trunks, goggles and foot fins and carries a small portable oxygen unit and harpoon.

The Unicorn, he says, is the philosopher of this fish. This fellow has a horned nose and "always seems deep in thought and detached. He likes to remain by himself. Any attempt to interfere with his isolation makes him whirl madly and bounce against the coral."

TRIGGER FISH, Haas says, will follow an underwater swimmer, making all kinds of excited movements to attract his attention. If the swimmer moves toward them, they dash off, stop at a safe distance and start flirting again.

The Black Angels—small tropical fish—move in pairs. One imitates the other exactly and they're never more than a couple of inches apart. "You can only separate them by killing one."

The Trumpet fish is thin and about two feet long. This is the calculating conniver. He stands rigid, head down, tail up, trying to look like an innocent piece of coral. Any little curious visitor is immediately gobbled up.

The Trumpet fish also has a nasty habit of sneaking over a fat, blue Parrot fish, who is peaceful and doesn't eat other fish. That being the case, smaller fish frequently collect near the friendly Parrot. Whereupon the old Trumpet swoops down and takes his cut.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE lovers of the ocean blue, Haas reports, are small Trunk fish which are shaped like a trunk and are green in their non-romantic state, which is seldom.

Two Trunks start kissing on the sea floor, actually rubbing noses together. This makes them thrash wildly about, turning over and over. As they kiss, they turn blue and rise to the surface with much commotion.

They finally reach the surface completely exhausted. Then they start turning green and drift slowly down with more dignity than they had going up. Once they reach the bottom, they start smooching again, turn blue, rotate wildly and start going up again.

"They never seem to stop," Haas reports. (AP Newswriters)

Looking Backward

From The News Files

FORTY YEARS AGO—Ten girl friends of Miss Theresa Finnigan surprised her by gathering at her home on Fair St. Friday, and the affair was turned into a double surprise when her brother invited in 10 boy friends.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO—Herman V. Zimmerman won the honors in the spelling contest which featured a meeting of Mt. Nebo Grange Wednesday at the hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowan Hepler were pleasantly surprised Wednesday when 16 friends called at their home, Main St., to celebrate their birthday anniversaries.

TEN YEARS AGO—Secretary of State Hull indicated today that this country should be on guard against a sudden German move supporting Japan in fulfillment of the Axis tripartite pact.

Mrs. James W. Fife was named new noble grand of Home Lodge No. 110, Daughters of Rebekah, at a meeting Friday at the lodge hall.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Ray L. Dean, managing editor of The Salem News, went to Columbus today to attend a weekend meeting of the Associated Press editors of Ohio.

Honoring her brother, Pfc. Gail Bush, who is home on terminal leave, Mrs. Harold Feicht entertained at a coverdish dinner Wednesday evening at her home in Greenford. Pfc. Bush spent one year in Germany.

Story of Corruption

Democratic Senator Warns
Of Moral Deterioration

By CHARLES E. STEB

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A Democratic Senator has given Republicans a text for many a "corruption in Government" campaign speech.

Shortly after he finished exploring the web of influence and domination at the R.F.C., Sen. Fulbright (D) of Arkansas, took the Senate floor to issue a sober warning on "the moral deterioration of American Democracy."

In that speech, under the heading of "Condemning Corruption," he said bitterly:

"Corruption in our government is not a new phenomenon in our history. It seems to be new about these scandals in the moral character of our citizens which allow them to accept the practices which the facts reveal."

"It is hard enough for us to have corruption in our midst, but it is harder if it is to be condoned and accepted as inevitable."

"WHAT SEVERITY" can be placed on a scandal which is so common in our government? It is a scandal which is so common in our government that it is hard to believe that it is to be condoned and accepted as inevitable."

"It is only in Washington that we see a complete demoralization of the standards of morality and ethics. The parties of the administration have not even hesitated to deny the improper use of power."

In the Senate speech, Mr. Fulbright suggested a commission of inquiry to look into the problem of government ethics, and that proposal was backed up by a subsequent speech by another Democrat—Sen. Douglas of Illinois.

The Douglas group expressed concern over ethics, morals and the conduct of the "last administration" and the "political machine" for the other hand, it stressed a point sometimes forgotten:

"The R.F.C. has undergone a complete shake-up. Its much-estimated five-man board has been replaced by a single administrator—W. Stuart Symington, who has promised the agency will now operate with integrity."

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL

Chairman William Boyle, under fire for his connection with an R.F.C. borrower, has resigned for "health" reasons and been replaced by Frank McKinney, who promises strictly ethical conduct at national headquarters.

President Truman has proposed putting tax collectors, now political patronage jobs, under Civil Service. He has also suggested that all government officials earning $10,000 a year or more be required to reveal all income, public and private.

But reforms, however sincere and careful, probably will not quell corruption as a major 1952 campaign issue. New investigations and the continuation of old ones can be expected to provide fresh material through the pre-election months, which GOP leaders feel they will make a potent talking point in the forthcoming battle for the White House.

Gunman Kidnaps 2, Heads For Coast

YUMA, Ariz. (AP)—A youthful gunman who boasted he is "tougher than Billy Cook" kidnapped a young couple near here and headed for the California border, the sheriff's office reported today.

Law officers in several southern California counties set up road on main highways. The kidnapping was reported to Yuma County Sheriff James Washum last night by a Casa Grande, Ariz., garage mechanic, James E. Beaird.

Beaird said a young man fagged him down while he was delivering a car, pulled a gun, robbed him of $6 and forced him to drive 135 miles across the Arizona desert.

Twenty-two miles east of here the gunman saw a young couple in a car parked by the roadside and ordered Beaird to halt. He climbed in the other car and ordered the pair to start driving toward California, Beaird said.

Rearmament Hit By Inflation

High Costs Cut Arms Making, Report Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department says the rearmament program has been hit hard by inflation and the situation may get worse.

In a report released over the weekend covering the fiscal year ended last June 30, the Department said that "almost two billion out of every ten billion dollars authorized for procurement and construction were lost due to the marked increase in prices since the spring of 1950." And at another point the report said:

"In the months ahead, inflation is likely to become a very disturbing factor in the defense program. It must be contained to enable the American people to maintain an adequate level of military preparations."

Nation's Tactics

"The use of gas, tactics and weapons to a creeping inflation is just as serious as their use on the battlefield. In either case, it is the nation that suffers."

The Defense Department's report was written by George C. Marshall before he retired as Secretary of Defense last September.

It spoke of the progress made during the year in development of new models of atomic weapons, but did not discuss the details.

It also commented that the experiments of the nuclear weapons program, ground on Eniwetok Island in the Pacific had "contributed to the research on thermonuclear weapons." A thermonuclear weapon would be a hydrogen bomb, which physicists believe might be as much as 1,000 times the power of an atomic bomb.

All three of the armed forces set it to be known their programs for developing and going into it had developed a guided missile were well along.

The Air Force indicated that it had developed a guided missile for the protection of long range strategic bombers, a weapon which could augment or replace the standard machine gun and 20 millimeter cannon armament of the atomic bomb carriers.

The Air Force said that during the year it worked on development of six major guided missiles and started still another project. It said the missile project included developments designed to improve the fighting effectiveness of interceptor planes, permit tactical support of ground troops in any kind of weather and increase "the defensive capabilities of strategic bombers."

160 Casualties Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 160 more battle casualties in Korea. A new list reported 39 killed, 66 wounded, 42 missing in action and 31 injured in battle accidents.

It also listed seven as killed who were previously reported missing.

Good Practice Code Offered TV Stations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The television industry has come up with a "code of good practice" as its response to critics who say too many programs are vulgar or too violent.

The code was promulgated this weekend, following its unanimous approval by the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters (NARTB).

Compliance with the code is voluntary on the part of each station, but in the background are such matters as proposals in and out of Congress that the government step in to prevent presentation on TV sets of any barnyard humor, excessive violence and too deeply plunging necklines.

On the question of attire of performers, the code says:

"The costuming of all performers shall be within the bounds of propriety and shall avoid such exposure or such emphasis on anatomical details as would embarrass or offend home viewers."

The code suggests that on the average there should be a relationship of not more than one minute of commercials for every five minutes of regular program material.

Between now and next March 1, when the code is actually to take effect, the individual TV stations will say whether or not they intend to obey it. Those who subscribe to it will be given a "Seal of Good Practice" they may display; violations of the code could mean withdrawal of the seal.

Boy Sends Prized Toy To Child Losing Sight

SPRINGFIELD, O. (AP)—Two-year-old Vernie Smith of Woodward, Okla., wanted most to have a mechanical toy jeep before doctors removed his one remaining eye Wednesday.

Robert Yeutter, 12, of Springfield has a mechanical toy jeep—his most prized toy. He got it last summer in Stuttgart, Germany, while he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Yeutter, were visiting his grandmother.

It's a tre scale model, with Army serial numbers painted on it, and rubber tires, and everything. And it has a wind-up motor and runs.

Robert read of Vernie's wish in the Springfield Sun. He and his mother packed the toy and sent it to Vernie.

Meat Prices Reported Six Percent Lower

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Meat Institute says that average wholesale meat prices have dipped six per cent in the past two months and attributes the decline to seasonal increase in supplies.

The Institute, which represents the country's major meat packers, said yesterday that top grades of beef were selling from one to four cents a pound below OPS ceilings at some markets. Lower grades of beef were as much as 10 per cent below ceilings, the Institute said.

GI, In Army 7 Months, Earns Medal Of Honor

WASHINGTON (AP)—An infantryman with less than seven months service in the Army when he knocked out five Communist gun emplacements has been awarded the Medal of Honor.

The highest military decoration was conferred on Sgt. 1st Class Joseph C. Rodriguez, 23 years old, of San Bernardino, Calif. He was a private first class when he fought his own personal and courageous action near the Korean village of Munye-ri last March 21, killing 15 of the enemy. He was wounded eight days later in another engagement.

The Army announcement today on the award said Rodriguez's action was an "incredible display of valor."

Rodriguez, who is enroute to the United States where the presentation ceremony will be held, is the 29th Army man to receive the Medal of Honor in the Korean war. Of the 29, only eight are alive or their whereabouts known. Seventeen awards were posthumous for heroes killed in action, four to men missing in action.

Picture of a man making a smart decision

HERE is a man who's been doing a lot of thinking.

Someday, he's told himself, I'm going to turn in my old car and get a new one.

And he said, still talking to himself, when I do that I'm going to size up the field—give 'em all a real going over.

You see him here at the wheel of a Buick. He hasn't bought it—yet. It's a demonstrator, and he's trying it out.

But the more he tries it, the more he knows he's been wasting a lot of time.

From the moment he looked inside, he said: Here's the room—and the comfort—and the style I've been looking for.

Then he nudged its Fireball Engine into action. It's a high-compression valve-in-head, as you probably know.

He eased out into traffic. Stopped and started for a couple of traffic lights, and said something to the effect that this Dynaflo Drive* is a honey. Why don't they all build 'em this way?

He saw a bump ahead. Place where the pavement had been torn up. Other cars were braking down to a creep to cross it. He held back—rolled right across at regular speed with barely a bobble.

It's hard to believe, he said, but what they say about Buick's ride is right.

Ten minutes later he was out on an open stretch of road. Tried an experimental push on the gas treadle. Boy—what a take-off! You couldn't want more power than that.

Ten minutes more—and he knew something else. You don't really steer a Buick. It just about steers itself. Stays right on the beam on the straightaway. Even straightens itself out after a curve.

To make a long story short—he's found out that nothing else he's tried out can hold a candle—not even a little Christmas candle—to this bonnie beauty.

Back at the Buick showroom, he's going to get one more surprise. The price of a Buick is a lot less than he'd guessed it would be.

Moral: Smart Buy's Buick—right now.

Cleveland Browns Capture American Division Grid Crown

Await National Division Opponent For Playoffs

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns, home today with their sixth straight division title, wondered which of four clubs to await for their probable opponent in the championship playoff.

The Browns thumped the Pittsburgh Steelers, 26-0, yesterday and that clinched for them the American Division title a week before the regular season ends. Their game next Sunday at Philadelphia will be for the record books only.

But still undecided is the winner of the National Division which will play the Browns in the pro league's championship game.

In that division, Detroit is in first, Los Angeles and the Chicago Bears are tied for second and San Francisco is fourth.

San Francisco's 49ers can finish tied for the lead, but only if they beat Detroit Sunday and if the two second-place clubs lose.

THE VICTORY at Pittsburgh was the fourth shutout this season for the Browns. And it was the second time this year the champs have held the Steelers scoreless. The other shutout victories were Washington and the New York Giants.

Three of the winners' touchdowns came in the second period, two of them within two minutes.

Earl Carpenter took a pitch out from Otto Graham and whirled around right and left for 24 yards and the first score. That was the beginning of a 51-yard march.

Two minutes before the half, Pittsburgh's Joe Geri jumped out of bounds on his own 21. Three plays later, Cleveland's Marion Motley plunged into the end zone from the eight. One of those three plays was a 35-yard pass from Graham to Dante Lavelli.

LENNY FORD, former Brown defensive end, fell on Chuck Ortman's fumble on the Pittsburgh eight-yard line after that and Graham passed to Lavelli for the win.

Deep in the fourth quarter, Cleveland got the ball on downs on the Pittsburgh 20. Carl Taseff, a rookie back, went the last three yards for that touchdown.

Los Geros hosted all the conference. That was the 16th straight win for the Browns after they lost the opening game of the season at San Francisco.

If the National Division's winner is not decided next Sunday, it may not be a playoff will be held before the championship game.

SAN FRANCISCO has beaten Detroit's Lions this year and should have a chance to repeat. The Lions trimmed the Browns in an exhibition before the season started.

Cleveland dumped both the National Division's second place teams—Los Angeles and the Bears—during the regular season.

Los Angeles plays Green Bay and the Bears meet the Chicago Cardinals next week.

Four of the division crowns the Browns have collected were in the defunct All-American Conference, of which they were the champs the four years it existed. They also topped the American Division of the National League last year and then went on to shade Los Angeles for the championship.

Tulsa Leads College Teams in Offense

NEW YORK (AP)—Tulsa's Missouri Valley Conference football champions led major college teams in total offense and placed second to Arizona state of tempo in rushing for the 1951 season.

The Golden Hurricanes from Tulsa gained 5,222 yards rushing and passing in 11 games, according to final official statistics released today by the National Collegiate Service Bureau.

Tulsa also held the rushing lead until Saturday's game against Herdick Simmons, when the Oklahoma Sooners dropped down to second place with 3,622 yards for an average of 329.3. Arizona State last year's top ground gaining team, moved into the top spot with a total of 3,346 and an average of 304.6 in 10 games.

Tulsa's average of 480.2 yards passing and rushing per game is the second best ever compiled in major competition. Nevada set the record of 467 yards per game in 1948.

Grid Coaches Named For All-Star Game

COLUMBUS (AP)—Chuck Riffle of Warren and George Vierehne of Zanesville were named Saturday as coaches for the annual Ohio High School North-South All Star football game to be played next Aug. 16 in Akron's Rubber Bowl.

The Ohio High School Football Coaches Association made the selections. Riffle and Vierehne each will pick three assistants. The coaches also named the players, all seniors, who will take part in the all-star game. Riffle and Vierehne each is allowed to choose one player. Akron coaches will select two players to add "home talent" to the game.

A week-long coaching school will be held in conjunction with the game, with prominent coaches invited to be instructors.

Matthews Sets Sights On Walcott, Marciano

(AP Newsfeatures)

SEATTLE—The blasting fists of Harry (Kid) Matthews will be shooting at larger targets in the future.

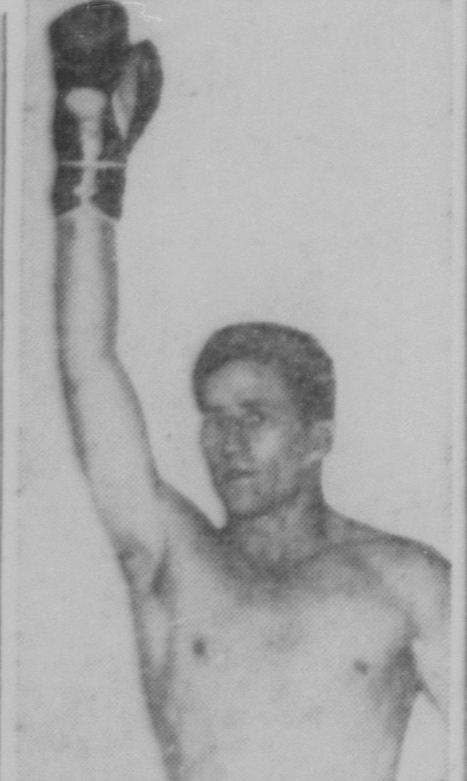

"We're tired of trying to force Joe Maxim (the light-heavy champ) to fight us," says Jack Hurley, Matthews' pilot.

"Evidently Maxim and his manager, Jack Kearns, have made up their minds to keep on ignoring us."

"So we'll just forget about them and start chasing the heavyweight champion, Joe Walcott, and contender Rocky Marciano. We'd like to fight Marciano first for the right to fight Walcott."

HURLEY's efforts to get top-notch light-heavy opposition for Matthews had attracted nationwide attention and prompted a congressional investigation to determine if a boxing trust was in operation. The peak of the Kid's career, which includes 64 victories and a draw in his last 65 fights, was a decision over Irish Bob Murphy last winter in Madison Square Garden.

"Harry will be a strong 178 or 180 as a heavyweight," his manager says.

Harry (Kid) Matthews

ager says. "He's rapidly becoming one of the best finishers in the business. If he gets the other guy in trouble, look out."

Several heavyweights have been included in the Kid's list of victims.

Sedgman Whips Dick Savitt

Schroeder, Trabert Encounter Sweden

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Frank Sedgman of Australia won the Victorian Tennis championship today with a one-sided victory over Dick Savitt, and immediately following this setback Captain Frank Shields of the American Davis Cup team named Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert to play singles against Sweden in the Interzone Finals starting Thursday.

In all likelihood, Savitt lost his chance for a singles berth when he went down before the Aussie ace in only 58 minutes by scores of 8-6, 6-0, 6-4. Sedgman was at his very best in walloping the Orange, N. J., star.

In the opening singles tilt on Thursday, Trabert, the Cincinnati sailor, will oppose Sven Davidson, Sweden's No. 2 player. Then the 30-year-old Schroeder, from La Crescenta, Calif., will tangle with Lennart Bergelin, a gent who hasn't lost a set in Davis Cup play in the past two years.

Neither side will announce its pairings for Friday's doubles until 24 hours before the match.

Savitt, after gaining a 5-2 lead in the opening set, came almost completely apart and lost 12 of the next 13 games as Sedgman raced through the second set at love.

In the last two sets, the speedy Sedgman, holder of the United States' singles crown, displayed a mastery of the all-court game by scoring 23 placements to Savitt's six. A surprisingly large crowd of almost 5,000 was on hand to see Savitt, Wimbledon and Australian titleholder, take his lumps.

The naming of Schroeder and Trabert to play singles comes as somewhat of a surprise, as these two also were expected to form Uncle Sam's doubles team. And overlooked for a starting assignment is Philadelphia's Vic Seixias, recent winner of the New South Wales tourney. After Shields made his choices today there is no percentage in trying to out-guess him on the doubles.

In the Victorian tournament, Schroeder was knocked out decisively by Seixias in a second-round match which went only three sets. Trabert bowed in the same round to Sedgman but the young naval trainee put up a stout four-set struggle and still thinks he can trim the Australian king if given another chance.

Bossard Expected Browns To Triumph

CLEVELAND (AP)—Probably the least surprised man when the Cleveland Browns clinched the American Division title yesterday was Emil Bossard, the man in charge of maintaining the grounds at Municipal Stadium.

He returned the field last week in preparation for next spring's baseball season, saying he was sure the Browns would beat the Pittsburgh Steelers and that there would be no more pro football games here.

The National League's championship game this year will be played in the park of the National Division winner.

But if the Browns had ended the regular season tied for first in the American Division, a playoff would have been held here.

The win over the Steelers put the Browns one and a half game ahead of second place New York Giants with one game to go.

Charles, Maxim Fight On Coast Wednesday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Trim but edgy Ezard Charles and confident Joey Maxim take it comparatively easy today and tomorrow.

Charles, former world heavyweight champion and Maxim, light heavy titleholder meet in a 12-round non-title charity bout at San Francisco's Cow Palace Wednesday.

It will be their fifth meeting. The fight will be televised from coast to coast except in the San Francisco area at 7 p.m. (10 p.m. EST).

Charles, weighing 188, wound up his training yesterday. Maxim at 176½ planned 15 rounds on the light and heavy bags today.

Charles' Trainer Ray Arcel expressed fear "Our boy is too much on edge."

In Santa Rosa, Maxim's Manager Jack Kearns said his boxer "is in the finest condition of his professional ring career."

OSU Prexy Defends Physical Ed

COLUMBUS (AP)—President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State University today defended physical education curricula in colleges by saying they are "not a haven of refuge for scholastically incompetent athletes in most universities."

In a statement issued through the university's public relations office, Dr. Bevis said:

"To be sure, many athletes select physical education as their major area of study. We wish there were more of them. They are, for the most part, fine young men. They wish to become teachers of physical education in schools and colleges or they want to prepare to be recreation supervisors or go into other forms of social and recreational work."

"The preparation they undergo leading to bachelor of science or bachelor of arts degrees is good, solid stuff," Dr. Bevis said.

"It is based upon a study of the life sciences such as physiology, psychology, chemistry and sociology and involves thorough preparation in the study of education itself, its principles and methods."

The university's department of physical education reported that about 20 members of this year's football squad of 90 men are physical education majors, with approximately one-fourth of all athletes participating in varsity sports majoring in that field.

Ohio State offers bachelor's, master's and doctor of philosophy degrees in physical education.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—After a much-needed rest, 15-day, Illinois' unbeaten, once-tied football team today began preparations for the Rose Bowl clash with Stanford New Year's Day.

The Illini will work out daily through Saturday, leaving Sunday for the West Coast and 10 more practice sessions before tangling with Stanford in the Pasadena Classic.

Nick Sunoff, coach of the New York pro Yankees, is a former star end for Washington State College.

THE SONGS OF CHRISTMAS

Song expresses the best in man's nature—his devotion, his praise, his happiness, his love. Of all the carols of joy and gladness, none is better known than "God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen." No one knows who wrote it, or when. It goes back at least 300 years and is England's best loved carol.

Another of the merry songs of Christmas is "Deck the Hall With Boughs of Holly." This dates back to the pre-Christian era in England and the midwinter festival called "Yule."
